DESCRIPTION

The Datamasters Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) mailing list allows you to reach emergency health care professionals at their home address.

EMTs provide emergency medical services to patients that have been injured or suffered a life threatening condition such as a heart attack or stroke. They often assist the police and fire departments when responding to a call where injuries may have been sustained. They are trained to control bleeding, stabilize patients from going into shock, administer CPR, immobilize spinal injury patients, and secure splints for bone fractures. EMTs would use gauze, bandages, backboards, blood pressure cuffs, road flares, disposable gloves, masks, tape, cold packs, blankets, stethoscopes, hand disinfectants, scissors, safety glasses, thermometers, syringes, and gurneys in the line of their job performance.

Purchasers of this mailing list would include hospital supply retailers/wholesalers, pharmaceuticals, imaging diagnostic providers, medical apparel suppliers, continuing education providers, mobility aid providers, medical periodical providers, and medical software companies.
